

Products Liability

You know your product is the best.
But does the court agree with you?

In the midst of globalization, the growing impact of multinationals, and the emergence of new manufacturing countries, the supply chain has become significantly more complex.

At GPL, we understand that products manufacturers and other members of the supply chain must take into account omnipresent technology, worldwide distribution of sales and, consequently, must be constraint to additional and tougher regulations.

In a legal environment that is increasingly litigious and which may involve your liability due to bodily injuries or material damages resulting from the use of a product you designed, manufactured or sold, managing your products risk is key to preserving your reputation and ensuring the longevity of your business. Ultimately, a defect in your product may end up costing your company punitive and exemplary damages.

Expertise: Our firm serves many clients in the manufacturing and distribution industries with worldwide sales and operations. Over the years, we have developed a specialized knowledge of not only products liability – whether it be flaws in design and manufacturing or failure to disclose potential hazards associated with a product – but also products recall and warranties.

Proactive service: We like to establish a personalized approach with our clients; this may mean to reevaluate your insurance limits, negotiate the removal of an exclusion, advise you during a potential claim, or simply produce insurance certificates. We work with you to identify and minimize your risks. We keep up-to-date on changes in regulations, as well as trends in jurisprudence and products liability insurance markets.

Relationship with insurance markets: We negotiate with major local and international insurers who specialize in general liability and products liability. Over the years, and through numerous risk placements, we have developed a close relationship with these insurers. We always provide underwriters with your products portfolio, the legal risk level associated with them, and the company's quality control procedures in place to minimize your risks.

Since we favor a global approach, we can meet all of your insurance needs such as property insurance, casualty insurance, directors and officers' liability, environmental liability, automobile and group insurance for your employees.

To contact us:
Christian Giner, MBA, LL.B.
cginer@gplassurance.com
☎ 514-788-4407

www.gplassurance.com

Tailor-made solutions | Personalized service

GPL
assurance

Trustworthy professional services • An unmatched expertise of the insurance market • Advice on minimizing and managing your risks
• Advocacy of your interests during the claims process • Solutions to complex problems

This bulletin is produced for your information only and constitutes neither an opinion on the stated coverage nor legal advice.